

St. Louis Christian College

Guidelines for Chemical Abuse Prevention

In compliance with the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendment, St. Louis Christian College has adopted the following Drug Prevention Program, applicable to all students and employees of the College.

(This information is distributed to all students and staff every fall.)

St. Louis Christian College's Philosophy

SLCC endeavors to provide a positive learning and working environment, with Christ at the center. In keeping with this philosophy and the College's mission statement, to manufacture, distribute, dispense, possess or use alcohol or a controlled substance unlawfully on any campus property or at any college-sponsored event is grounds for disciplinary sanctions for students and employees alike. This may include dismissal from the College community, as well as referral for prosecution or the completion of an appropriate rehabilitation program. Students also sign a lifestyle covenant stating that they will not use alcohol, tobacco, or illicit drugs the entire time they are students, including any breaks in the academic year and summer breaks. See the Guide to Student Life, the Disciplinary Guidelines for St. Louis Christian College, and the Employee Handbook for more information.

Legal Sanctions

Members of the College community could face prosecution under local, state, and federal law for the unlawful possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs. The abuse of alcohol may include up to seven years in prison and/or a $10,000 fine for a Class A Felony.

In 1987, "Abuse and Lose" became law in Missouri. If found guilty of an alcohol or drug related driving violation, you will lose your driver's license for a fixed period of time, and you must attend a drug-related education program before your license can be reinstated. You may lose your driver's license for one year for refusal to submit to a police officer's request for a chemical test.

All of the provisions and penalties under the "Abuse and Lose" law are in addition to the criminal penalties, which may include points against your driver's license, required completion of a Substance Abuse Traffic Offender Program, fines, restitution, or jail sentence.

Health Risks

Excessive alcohol consumption or use of illicit substances impairs the user's ability to function, changes the user's behavior, and subjects the user to serious health risks, including disease, addiction, and even death. An overdose can happen due to uncertain purity, strength, or even type of drug. It can also happen due to increased tolerance--there is a need for more and more of a drug to get the same effect. Continued use of drugs can lead to psychological and/or physical dependence on them.

If you have a problem with drugs or alcohol, or you suspect someone you care about does, please seek help or encourage that person to do so. See the Dean of Students or another administrator of the College.
